English Majoring After College (Histories and Futures of Higher Education)

Notes:

- A. underlined dates are Hangouts with our Duke and Stanford course partners
- B. Reading in Duke and Stanford courses is recommended as complementary

1. Wednesday January 8

Introduction to the course's questions, readings, methods and partners

The 4 Questions:

- How has college been for you so far?
- What do English majors do with college?
- Is college now doing what you or society want it to?
- How should we change college education to help what comes after?

Reading of Duke and Stanford syllabi, discussion of partners: co-located courses at Duke and Stanford, Coursera MOOC on Higher Education, additional guests

Christopher Newfield, Unmaking the Public University, chapters as follows:

Intro

Ch 1 (the post-war expansion being a socio-economic-cultural awakening of sorts)

Ch 5 (Gov Pete Wilson and the war on affirmative action)

Ch 6 (attacks on affirmative action as attacks on general development--blocking democratic meritocracy in favor of rank-meritocracy) ch 7 (the "colorblind" university as supporting market stratification- "pseudointegration" as the end of the post-war developmentalist multiracial middle class expansion)

Narrative arc: (1) how the culture wars played the race card in universities to discredit egalitarian social development

Forming Writing-Research Groups (WRGs)

Decisions about convergence of methods with Duke & Stanford partners.
